ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

The source of data for these tables is the Annual Survey of Hospices, conducted by the Bureau of Health Information and Policy, Division of Public Health (DPH), Department of Health and Family Services, in cooperation with Wisconsin-licensed hospices; the Bureau of Fee-for-Service Health Care Benefits, Division of Health Care Financing, and the Office of Quality Assurance, DHFS. Wisconsin HOPE (Hospice Organization and Palliative Experts) endorsed this survey.

The 2005 survey population consisted of all 62 hospices licensed in Wisconsin. The survey instrument, prepared by the Bureau of Health Information and Policy, was mailed with the Hospice Annual Report (licensure) form in January 2006 by the Office of Quality Assurance. The survey utilizes a survey date of December 31; that is, hospices are asked to report some survey items (such as number of patients) as of that date. Other data items (such as the number of patient days and the number of admissions and discharges) were reported for all of calendar year 2005. Staffing information was based on the number of personnel employed by hospices during the week of Dec. 4-10, 2005. Data for 2000 and 2002 are also presented in this publication, based on surveys conducted for those years.

Hospice is a program that provides care to terminally ill persons who have a life expectancy of 6-12 months. (The patient must have a medical prognosis of 12 months or less to be eligible to receive services from a Wisconsin-licensed hospice. Medicare requires a prognosis of 6 months or less to elect the Medicare hospice benefit.) “Hospice” can be an organization, a program within an organization, or a place (for details, see Wisconsin Administrative Code HFS 131).

Hospice care is significantly different in goals and emphasis from traditional medical practice. The goal of hospice care is palliative (seeking to improve patient comfort and to lessen pain and other symptoms of illness) rather than curative. It also emphasizes home care rather than institutional care, addresses the psychological, social, spiritual, and physical needs of the patient, and provides supportive services to the family. Volunteers are a unique component in hospice care.
